The Internet:

It is everywhere. More than half a billion people use it, and the number of people who are online increases by 100 million every year. In 1994, there were only a few hundred web pages. Today there are billions. It has revolutionized the way we live and work. But we are still in the early days. Soon there will be more and more interactivity between the user and the website, and we will be able to give instructions using speech.

Space Travel:

In 1969, Neil Armstrong stepped out of his space capsule onto the surface of the moon and made his famous statement: ‘That’s one small step for a man, one giant leap for mankind’. Since, then there have been space probes to Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, and even to the Sun. So far, it seems that we are alone in the Universe.

Medical Science:

Surely nothing has been done more for the comfort and happiness of the human race than the advances in health care. Fleming discovered penicillin. How many millions of people have benefited from the humble aspirin? How many lives has penicillin saved? Average life expectancy worldwide has risen dramatically over the past 100 years, from about 47 years in 1900 to about 77 years today.

International Travel:

Airlines carry more than 1.5 billion people to their destinations every year. It is estimated that at any one time these days there are as many people travelling in aero planes as the total number of people who travelled abroad in the whole of the nineteenth century.

It is true that they are now commercialized and there is greed and drug abuse. However, it is a competition in which almost every country in the world takes part. Every four years, for a brief moment, we see the world come together in peace and friendship.
