Reading Passage-1

I. Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow. (7 marks)

A. The term junk food itself defines to the foods that do no good to your body and they are completely unimportant to the body. Junk foods have no or very less nutritional value and most of them are high in saturated fats and sugar components and also excess of salts and lack any fiber. The only reason of their gaining popularity and increased trend of consumption is that they are ready to eat.

B. The characteristic of fast food is to cause a spike in the energy levels and hence luring one back to eat up another makes it even more harmful. This eating pattern is likely to cause aggravated energy levels that fail to come down even at sleep time in the night and result in sleeping disorders. Moodiness is another implication of regular consumption of junk food.

C. The most common bad effect is obesity which has become very common even amongst children aged as low as 3-5 years and causes many other chronic diseases and hormonal imbalances in the obese person. Heart diseases, increased levels of blood pressure and sugar are more likely to happen if the person is a regular consumer of oily junk foods.

D. Since junk foods are not easy to digest and consume larger amounts of energy from the body in the process, people consuming them experience lack of oxygen levels which gradually causes the brain to function poorly.

E. Nutrition experts have researched the bad effects of junk food and come to the conclusion that junk food manufacturing companies are fooling the people by showing deceptive ads that market show junk food as healthy. We must substitute junk food with healthier food like fruits and vegetables.

Reading Passage-2

I. Read the given passage carefully and answer the questions that follow. (8 marks)

A. Studies in fields, such as psychology and sociolinguistics often examine how men and women communicate in different contexts. Experts are paying attention to the differences in the ways men and women think and communicate. The two genders – men and women might be members of the same family, and share similar responsibilities as parents, sons or daughters, but perceive things differently.

B. The two genders often have different ideas about conversation. For women, equality is important. Women usually want all people in a group to have the same status. Women often see conversation as a way to connect people, and find ways that they are similar – almost the same. For men, it’s important to have a high status in the hierarchy (the system from low to high positions). They usually see conversation as a way to give and get information but also a way to climb up in the hierarchy. For example, a man might have a high status if he has more information than others or can tell funny stories.

C. Men and women also have different body language. They have ways to communicate with their face and body. Imagine a room full of people of both genders. Notice their body language. Women like eye contact. They need to look directly into each other’s eyes. Men usually don’t like eye contact. In a gathering, women like to sit face-to-face. Men like to sit side by side. In conversation, people of both genders often nod – move their heads up and down. This means, “Yes,” but there are other meanings too.
