I – READING (15 Marks)

Part 1: Read the passage carefully and follow the instructions given below. (7 Marks)

Do men and women use the same language?

What is important when people are in a group? The two genders often have different ideas about this. For women equality is important, in other words, women usually want all people in a group to have the same status. They often see conversation as a way to connect with other people - in other words, to be close to them and find ways that they are similar - almost the same.

Body Language

Men and women also have different body language. They have different ways to communicate with their face and body. Women like eye contact. They need to look directly into each other’s eyes. Men usually don’t like eye contact. In a gathering, women like to sit face to face. Men like to sit side by side. In conversation, people of both genders often nod - move their head up and down. This means “yes,” but there are other meanings. For women, it usually means, “I’m listening to you. I understand.” But for men, it usually means, “I agree.”

How people solve problems

Men and women have different ways to solve the problems. Women, who feel comfortable with equality, want to talk about the problem and solve it together with other people. Men want to find answers and end the problem quickly. A woman who needs help usually asks for help. This is easy for her. A man doesn’t like to ask for help. He thinks it lowers his status in the hierarchy (the system from low to high).

Dad bans phone after 3,500 texts

A Manchester teenager has received a phone bill for over $450 after sending 3,500 text messages in just one month. Tony Russell has had his new mobile phone for only three months, but now his father, Lionel, has taken it away.

“He’s been asking me for a mobile for years because all his friends have got one, explained Lionel, “I finally bought one for his birthday, but he and his mates are texting crazy.” They do it all the time – on buses, in the street, everywhere. They even text each other from different sides of the school playground.

They have got “textitis.” Tony said “I thought texting was much cheaper than phoning, so I have been texting my friends all day long and even into the early hours of the morning. I have been going to bed at 2.00 most nights. Sometimes my hand hurt from pressing the button so much, but I was having such good fun that I couldn’t bear to stop!”

His father said, “I have forgiven him, but I’m angry with the phone company as they are encouraging this craze.” He has made his son promise to pay back the money; so Tony has been working on Saturdays. He has found a job in a shoe shop. So far he has paid $46. “I reckon it will take me about a year to clear this debt”, he said.
